

HPC COMPETITION

HPC Lasers, the supplier of lasers at competitive prices, is launching a competition for secondary schools and colleges at this years Design & Technology Show, so make sure you stop by their stand D53 when you are at the show.

The prize is a brand new laser machine free of charge. To enter the competition, the school or college has to provide, on one page of A4, a description of the institution and why they should be the one to be awarded the laser.

The letter should be signed by the departmental head or head of the school or college.

The entry should be sent to HPC Lasers Limited, Castle Mills, Saddleworth Road, Elland, Halifax, West Yorks HX5 0RY or emailed to: sales@hpclaser.co.uk.

Chris Jacobs of HPC told Technology in Education "Our lasers are selling well, with currently over 450 machines sold into the education market. However, I know a number of schools are desperately trying to raise funds for an HPC laser and we want to offer one FREE per year and this seems the fairest way."
